MORAL SCIENCE

Moral Science Is it science, or a subject? No! It is something that defines you! Al Ain Juniors not only caters to subjects or languages but also builds their personality and character. Students enjoy what they do and are very creative in making posters, bookmarks and other mediums of art, as they learn their values of how to become a good, responsible and committed person in life. Classes are enjoyable and reminds me of my school days. My moral science classes are cherished. It doesn't matter if you're a Math, Science or Commerce teacher to teach Moral Science. I believe that any teacher can impart ethical values to our future generation.

MORAL EDUCATION

The subject of MEP is being taught during registration period, from 7:45 to 8:00 am on a daily basis except during exam time. In this time, the students are encouraged to reflect upon their experience during online school, their role as a member of a community, and the importance of gratitude, diversity and equality. In the months of September and October, the main topics were community and tips for having a successful experience in distance learning. The first topic was related to getting back to the school routine from home. So, in class, the students watched videos related to keeping good study habits and managing their time efficiently during distance learning classes.

Moreover, in the comment section of the meetings', they shared their own study tips to be productive, stay healthy at home, what they should do during the subject meetings, how to deal with stress and the importance of the communication between students, teacher and parents.

- What is community?
- Do you feel part of a community? Which one?
- How can we include a new member to our

After getting back to the school routine, the students participated in the class discussion about community: sharing their views on what is and what is not a community. It was great to see that despite the concept was confusing at first, most of 8E students feel part of a community and are able to list the communities they belong to as residents of the UAE, members of a family, and students of Al Ain Juniors School. They participated actively in the polls held in class regarding the day's topic: In polls like that, they realized that regardless of the language or cultural background, we all are active members of the UAE's community of residents and we need to contribute to it by respecting others, abiding by rules like crossing only on pedestrian crossings, and not littering the streets and public spaces. Additionally, they brainstorm ways in which they can contribute to the other communities and groups they belong to such as their families, group of friends and classmates.

ARTICLE OF THE MONTH

Every day is a blessing in disguise, whether we realise it or not. We curse, we whine, we hate, we complain, yet we finally come out of it alive. We need to strive for excellence and not for perfection. No matter how perfect you wish to become, remember that nobody is perfect.

Life is fought with struggle. But struggling can be good.

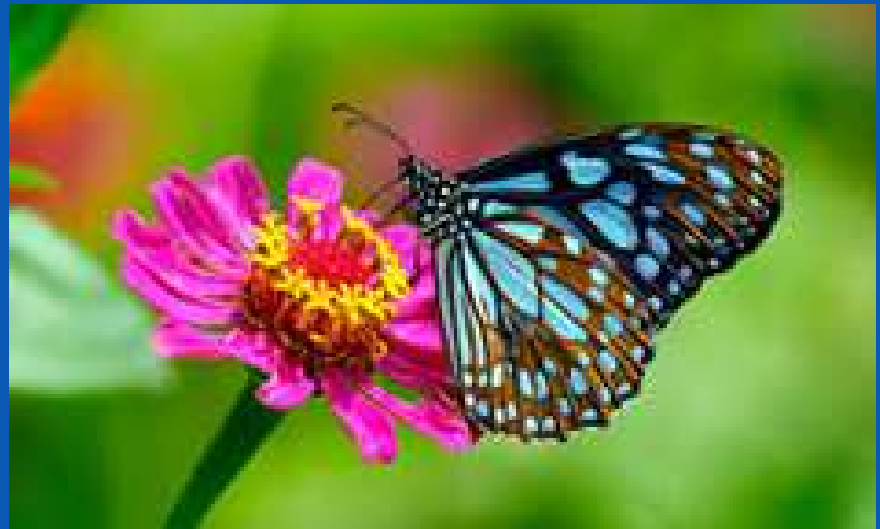

History has demonstrated that the most notable winners usually encountered heart-breaking obstacles before they triumphed. They won because they refused to become discouraged.

- B.C.Forbe

The trials in our lives can be destructive, or they can give us the fuel we need to carry on. It all depends on how we handle it. Triumphs do not come without effort.

"The caterpillar is in a cocoon before it turns into a butterfly. But it needs to struggle to come out of the cocoon, as it is a law of nature that helps develop and strengthen the butterfly's wings."

We need to implement this principle in our lives as well. Nothing worthwhile comes without a struggle.

A Takeaway: Be good; do good, and all good will come your way!

Live life the positive way and you'll live forever!

Appreciate life for what it gives you. You'll never have regrets.
